College Announces Faculty Changes

In an effort to meet the growing needs of the Newark State student body, changes have been made in the faculty and administration of the college.

Dr. Louis Rath, Distinguished Service Professor, has been appointed to the new position of Coordinator of College Curriculum and Instruction. He is to work with the department chairmen and the curriculum committee concerning changes in curriculum and instruction. Dr. Rath came to Newark State in 1962 from New York University. A noted educator, he has participated in many nationwide studies of American education.

Dr. Alton D. O'Brien, Dean of the College, has taken over some of the administrative duties of the office of the president.

The following is a summary of the faculty changes, including retirements, leaves of absence, promotions, and new faculty members.

Leaves of Absence

Dr. Allen J. Hansen, Assoc. Prof., Ed. Dept.

Dr. Gene S. McCreery, Assoc. Prof., Student Teaching and Placement.

Mr. E. Austin Goodwin, Assist. Prof., Fine Arts.

Mr. Joseph B. Higgins, Assist. Prof., History Dept.

Mrs. Winifred H. Amsden, Assist. Prof. II, Health and Phys. Ed.

Mr. Fred R. Marder, Assist. Prof. II, Student Pers.

Returns From Leaves of Absence

Mrs. Irene P. Reifsnnyder, Assoc. Prof., English Dept.

Mr. Harry W. Foskey, Assist. Prof., Education Dept.

Mr. Robert E. Schumacher, Assist. Prof., Science Dept.

Mr. James E. Downes, Professor in the Department of History and Social Science, retired after more than thirty years of teaching

Buildings Near Completion ; Other Improvements Noted

With the ground breaking for the new auditorium building, Newark State's final phase of construction and expansion covered by the 1960 Bond issue began this fall. Some additions to existing facilities, and the construction of new buildings have been planned to meet the needs of the increasing undergraduate enrollment at the college.

Ground has been broken and contracts let for the construction of the first men's dormitory on the campus. It will be ready for use in September, 1964. President Wilkins stated that male students now applying for 1964 enrollment will be allowed to apply also for dormitory space. It is hoped that students presently in the college will "pass the word along" that such facilities are available.

The additions to the Fine and Industrial Arts building and the Nancy Thompson Library have been completed and are already in use. The library has been fully air-conditioned, including the new wing. The extension of the D'Angola Gymnasium will be finished for use no later than the first of October. Classes scheduled for the two classrooms in the new wing are being held in the library.

The laboratory school, presently under construction, is scheduled for completion by the opening of the summer session, 1964. It will be used as the experimental school beginning with the fall, 1964 semester.

Additional parking facilities are also planned for the college. Contracts have been let for the construction of 28 spaces by Whiteman Hall. The entrance to this area will be from Monmouth Road. Added faculty parking spaces are to be put in near the gym, with an entrance from

Marder Takes Year's Leave

Mr. Fred Marder

Mr. Fred Marder, Chairman of the College Center, is on a leave of absence from the college for one year. The recipient of a $3000 grant from the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, he has begun study for a doctorate in college administration.

Mr. Marder's position at the college has been filled by Mr. Ronald Bruse. (Editors note: for more information on Mr. Bruse, turn to page three.)

CD Course Instituted

A course in civil defense has been instituted at Newark State. According to the president of the college, Dr. Eugene Wilkins, the course was instituted by the State Board of Education at the request of the State Defense Department.

The course, required of all students before graduation, carries one credit. Last year, the course was offered on a voluntary basis. At the present time, elementary majors are taking the course, and it will be offered again in the spring semester. Only seniors are enrolled.

President Wilkins noted that the content of the course is left largely to the discretion of the individual teachers, in order to make it "more realistic and more effective" for the individuals involved.

The course, held from 3:30 to 5:30 PM Wednesday and Friday, will run for three weeks.

Student Leaders Meet at Sharpe

The elected student officers of Newark State left campus on Friday, September 6, for four days of leadership training at Sharpe Reservation, the Herald-Tribune Fresh Air Fund Camp, in Fishkill, New York.

The fourth annual leadership conference was attended by 52 students. The purpose of the conference was to "help students in the acquisition of leadership arts." They were guided by Newark State's Center for Laboratory Training in Human Relations.

The Center for Laboratory Training in Human Relations is a new educational service in New Jersey. Dr. Frederick M. Raubinger, Commissioner of Education, named Newark State College as the site last Spring. Various educational, civic, and business groups may contract for training by the Center.

Dr. Goodwin Watson, director of the Center, was consultant to the Leadership Conference. Dr. Watson, psychoanalyst, social psychologist, and pioneer in the use of the "human relations laboratory," is Distinguished Professor of Education at Newark State. He came to the College in 1962 from Columbia University.

The professional staff for the conference included: Dr. Don R. Leveridge and Mrs. Zita Norwalk-Polsky of the Newark State Education Department; Mr. Burt Brown, Mrs. Harvey Hornstein, and Mr. Sidney Miller, all of the Department of Social Psychology and Group Development at Teachers College, Columbia University; and Mr. Saul Pilnick, director of Essex Fields, Newark.

Another member of the staff, Dr. Robert Allen, chairman of the graduate program at Newark State, worked with Montclair State College, which was conducting its first Leadership Conference.

The Leadership Conference is an intensive workshop in human relations, "designed to demonstrate that a good leader is an exceptionally sensitive, aware and understanding person." The four days at Sharpe provided an opportunity to experience and develop these qualities in the participants.

The regimen ranged from formal lectures to unstructured small group meetings known as "Training" or "T-Groups" in which participants learned of human relations literally by studying themselves. Students practiced functioning as organization leaders, or handling large groups. The object of these sessions was to teach the student leaders how to stimulate interest, combat apathy, and resolve conflicts.

The practicing leaders lived their subject almost 24 hours a day. It was anticipated that the end of the conference would see students armed with insights that perhaps would have taken years to accumulate in everyday life.

Student organizers of the conference were John Masterson '64, Inter-Fraternity-Sorority Council President; Diane Monaco, Student Organization Secretary; William Shiebler '65, Circle K Club President; and Florence Wright '64, Wapalanne corresponding secretary. Miss Betsy Davison, coordinator of student activities at the college, was faculty advisor.

Fall convocation, the official opening of the academic year, will be held on Tuesday afternoon, September 24. This is a change from the previously announced date of September 26. Students are asked to take note of the change.

Funds for CCB Voted at Council

Funds for the College Center Board, and the Freshman class were discussed at the September 13 meeting of the Student Council, the first of the 1963-1964 year.

Bill Shiebler asked that Council give the College Center Board a $500 advance on its budget, so that the board could continue its September activities. It was decided unanimously that the money would be advanced to the group, to be returned on the approval of the official budgets.

A request from the Hazing Committee that they be allowed to use the profit from the sale of beanies for the freshman welcome dance was voted down. Paul Minarchenko explained that the use of this money, plus class donations, would cover the cost of the dance. It was stated by a council member that such use of funds would be unconstitutional.

Bill Shiebler moved that council give the Hazing Committee a budget, plus enough money from the sale of beanies, to cover the cost of the dance. Following discussion, however, this motion was withdrawn. Mr. Shiebler then moved that $175 be appropriated to the Hazing Committee. Profits from the sale of beanies will be returned to Student Organization funds.

Central Banking

In an effort to expedite the distribution of funds, it was suggested that all checks be distributed only from the Skoshi Room at designated times. Sharon Cooper, Pam Myers, Bob Conway and Stella La Salvia, with the help of Miss Davison, will investigate the feasibility of such a plan.

Student Discounts

Student Discount Cards will again be available to Newark State students. Union merchants have been notified, and the cards will be put in mailboxes when they arrive. Elizabeth merchants are being contacted for spring semester.

The next meeting of the Student Council will take place on Friday afternoon, September 20, at 4:30 P.M. in the East Room.

Hazing Plans Made Known

Plans for Freshman Hazing have been announced by the 1963 Hazing Committee. This year's committee includes Paul Minarchenko, vice-president of the Student Organization; Al Record, president of the sophomore class; Tom Coyle, Richie Meimin, Bill Gargiles, Patt Carney, Fran Kelly, Carol Autorino, Rosemary Presrigiacomom, and Anne Nonisera.

Official hazing kits will be on sale in the college center today through Friday, September 18-20. They will be sold only between 9:00 A.M. and 4:00 P.M. The Welcome Dance will be held on Saturday evening, September 21, also in the College Center. Hazing will begin on Monday, September 23, and end with Senior Court on Wednesday, September 25.

The following are the official rules which will be in effect during hazing.

General Hazing Rules

1. No hazing in Townsend Hall (excluding the Lounge), Bruce Hall, Whiteman Hall, Thompson Library, the lavatories and the Snack Bar.
2. Freshmen are not to be hazed while eating. They will eat in the Conference On Cancer Slated

The New Jersey state conference on cancer will be held at Newark State on Saturday, October 5. It is planned as a workshop for health and science teachers in Essex and Union County.

The conference was planned through the local chapters of the American Cancer Society. Dr. Eugene Wilkins, president of Newark State, is education chairman and a member of the board of directors of the Union County chapter.

Although the conference is primarily for teachers in the area, Dr. Wilkins noted that certain representative students may attend.

Oh Welcome, Welcome

The beginning of the academic year invariably warrants a dull editorial. This is it!

And what could be a duller way to start than by saying welcome to the freshmen? Welcome, Freshmen.

Next come the new faculty members. Welcome new faculty members.

Now that this task is done, you cannot imagine the sense of achievement we feel.

The Final Threat

If the above editorial (Oh, Welcome, Welcome) is to be called dull, this may well be termed the perennial.

Do we need you? Oh me, do we--writers, 'deed we do. (To be sung to the tune of the Alma Mater, if you can remember it).

Oh, yes indeedy, all you budding young journalists, opportunity awaits you in the Independent office.

What do we offer you? The only way to find out is to read the following list (if you come to the office and ask, we won't tell you because then we'll know you don't read our editorials).

LIST

1. The chance to be on the blacklist of almost every one of Newark State's administrators.
2. A 50-50 chance of developing housemaid's knee.
3. A black leather jacket with Independent on the back in Spencerian Script. (optional)
4. Continual group therapy.
5. A readily available trap door through which it is possible to escape and pop up in two locations in the Library, three classrooms in Towsend Hall and one classroom in Bruce Hall.
6. A place to make use of your journalistic talent.
7. Love, warmth and sincerity.
8. Clandestine Bible readings every morning.
9. A warm puppy. (You cannot have both 7 and 9).
10. A crack at figuring out the annual budget.
11. The largest selection of fiction and literature books on campus.
12. A guaranteed seat at the second annual Florence Foster Jenkins Memorial Concert.
13. The satisfaction of decreasing the work-load of the Independent editors.
14. Home, Mother, apple pie, a chicken in every pot, two cars in every garage, a good five cent cigar and a check for a short beer.
15. The opportunity to obtain first-hand accounts of all the campus dirt. (You'd be amazed at what we don't print).

All of this can be yours and there is no charge. We'll take it out of you in blood, sweat and tears. For further and more accurate information, attend the Independent Tea on September 25 at 4:30 p.m. in the East Room.

As a final threat, allow us to assure you that we will continue to print this sort of nonsense until we get some help.

Items of Importance

A foreign language program has finally been instituted on campus. Although limited to only two languages, French and Spanish, it is certainly evident that the importance of this type of program has been realized.

The Independent has felt and has expressed the feeling for a number of years that foreign languages are essential to a college curriculum if that college is ever to receive more than mediocre status. We anticipate the continuation and expansion of the language program and look forward to the time when Newark State will graduate language majors.

To Drs. Dubin, Fink, and Watson, we extend sincere wish for the success of the new tutorial experiment which begins this semester. A cross-section of freshmen, thirty-two in all, have been selected to participate in this program consisting of individual research and instruction. This experience will also enable the freshmen to take advantage of the cultural opportunities offered in the metropolitan area. The tutorial, probably the most intellectually exciting program that will occur on campus this year, deserves the support of the entire college community. We will endeavor to keep the college informed of the progress of the tutorial.

Dr. Robert Roth, former Assistant Professor II of Education, has left Newark State. He is presently a faculty member at Hunter College. The reason for mentioning this is that Newark State has lost a fine educator, and what is more important, we have lost a fine human being.

Hazing Plans

"FROSH EATING GROUNDS" in the main dining room.

3. Only Sophomores will haze.
4. Freshmen will wear beanies with the brims DOWN; Sophomores will wear their beanies with the brims UP.
5. All hazing must be done on campus. Hazing will begin at 8:30 and end at 5:00. No hazing will take place after this time, including in the dormitory.

The Rule of Hazing

1. All freshmen must participate in observing the rules and traditions of hazing.
 2. Freshmen must walk in groups of three at all times during hazing and have in their possession a copy of the school handbook, a copy of the Alma Mater, and a copy of the school cheers. All freshmen must know both the Alma Mater and the cheers.
 3. Having a copy of the student handbook, Freshmen must know the buildings on campus, the regulations pertaining to dress, and the proper procedures on campus.
 4. Freshmen are NOT allowed to use the walks between Townsend Hall and the College Center. They are to use the roadways and to keep off the grass.
 5. Freshmen are allowed to enter only through the doors that have been designated for their use: a.) Townsend Hall: rear entrance to the Administrative wing facing the College Center; b.) College Center: rear entrance. located in front of the cafeteria (across from the Power House).
 6. Freshmen must wear the oaktag sign (part of the hazing kit) around their necks at all times during hazing. They are to include their name and high school. The signatures of fifty upperclassmen must be obtained on these signs by the last day of hazing. A prize will be offered for the best decorated sign.
 7. In order to obtain these signatures, Freshmen will have to carry books, sing songs, recite poetry, know school cheers, and obey all the rules of hazing.
 8. Freshmen are obligated to learn the following quotation: "Your solemn servant secretes the solemn seal of silence to say salutations superior sage and supreme sophomore."
 9. Freshmen will display courtesy at all times and will address all upperclassmen as Sir, Madame. Also: Boys will stop when addressed and bow; girls will stop when addressed and curtsy.
 10. Freshmen are required to have on their sign a copy of their schedule on a 4 x 8 index card.
 11. Freshmen are required to attend the Welcome Dance on Saturday, September 21. They will receive their beanies and additional hazing information.
 12. Beanies are to be worn at all times during hazing with the brims down.
 13. Freshmen are not allowed in the Snack Bar during hazing. They will eat in the "Frosh Eating Grounds" in the cafeteria. No hazing will take place while the frosh are eating.
 14. Boys will wear a tie; girls will wear their gym socks during hazing. The socks are part of the gym suit.
 15. All freshmen will carry their books in the shopping bag received from the bookstore.
 16. Freshmen will carry a pack of Newark State matches to light the cigarettes of upperclassmen.
 17. It is mandatory that all freshmen appear in Senior Court, which will be held on Wednesday, September 25, in the D' Angola Gymnasium.
- When Freshmen buy their hazing kits they will receive the oaktag sign, the N.S.C. pencil and matches, a copy of the Alma Mater and the school cheers, and a receipt for the beanie. The beanies will be given out at the Welcome Dance.

Foreigners Introduce New Ideas to Transfer Students

Sixty-nine foreign exchange students made the week at Stokes State Forest for transfer students an experience few will forget; a variety of ideas which were at variance with popular conceptions were reported by James B. Day, NSC Chairman of Informational Services.

The majority of the exchange students were West African Negroes from Guinea, Mali, and the Republic of the Congo-all former possessions of France. The others were South Vietnamese.

One of the high points of the week was a panel discussion moderated by Dr. George Burt. The panel dealt mainly with American Civil Rights. Basically, three different views were presented; the white American, the American Negro's, and the White African's view.

The Africans showed admiration for the American concept of freedom, but they mentioned that Americans did not put it into effect. One African girl, for example, was visibly moved when she described how she was not permitted to try on a dress at a store in Washington D.C. The implication was that she was "dirty".

Although they had been told what to expect in the United States, the Africans only understood the prejudice intellectually; experiencing it was "shocking", and in some cases, "outrageous."

The West African ideas on miscegenation contrasted sharply with that of many Americans. Prejudice against intermarriage of races was "totally alien" to them.

When a dichotomy was drawn by an American student between Capitalism and Communism, and logically developed to imply that socialism was a movement away from democracy and toward Communist tyranny, an African protested that it was a faulty dichotomy. The Africans said a distinction must be drawn between social and economic systems. Consequently, democracy would be termed a social system and socialism an economic system: thus, they can exist together.

The contrast between the Vietnamese and West Africans was striking. One Vietnamese girl, for example, took approximately one half of an hour to eat a light meal. She ate in a very stylistic manner. "In fact, just about everything they did was like a Malinese ritual dance."

The West African students, on the other hand, were extremely lively and uninhibited, yet proud and arrogant - "arrogant in a neutral manner".

The contrast was easily seen when the manner of dancing was compared. The African dancing was "tremendously energetic, and free", showing huge spasms of emotional intensity, while the songs and dances of the Vietnamese had a feeling of "perfect control and containment."

The Agency for International Development (AID) sponsored the students, who all plan to become teachers in their homelands.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor:

Recently, certain ridiculous events have occurred which prompted me to write this letter with the hope that someone with any appreciable amount of intelligence will "see the light."

One or more of the higher echelon of this . . . administration decided in the wake of their annual display of intelligence that it would be better for all concerned if there were no parking on the campus proper after 4:00 p.m. (Staff supposedly included.) The . . . stupidity of this brainstorm is reflected by the fact that there are ample parking facilities available for the amount of students and visitors on campus after 4:00 p.m.

The really idiotic flavor of this new regulation is soon realized by any visitor to the Newark State campus, especially those visiting the dormitory. Any visitor or student who wants to date someone living in the dorm has to park his car in the large parking lot and walk through mud, cross a creek, and make his way through thick underbrush to enjoy the company of a Newark State coed. This is not very encouraging to any visitor who has undertaken this safari in the black of night, and it does not leave one with a very pleasing impression of the college.

It might also be said that the dorm students themselves have been made to endure these difficulties of stumbling through a field and getting one's shoes covered with mud. I suppose the road leading to the dorm is just there for decorative purposes since the dorm students or anyone else are not allowed to use it.

After an evening out, one is supposed to park his car at a ridiculous distance and walk his date through the field instead of parking at a logical area, such as the circle. What will happen when it rains or snows? Before this regulation was put into effect, there was no problem of finding a parking place at the circle and everyone was happy.

Yes friends, members of the safari club and students of Newark State, you have a talented police force to protect you, and a progressive . . . administration that you can truly be proud of. Support them and they will conceive of more practical regulations for your own good, such as this parking fiasco. We must go forward (through the underbrush) into the Sixties.

National Review - A Quick Glance

National Review, the bible of American Conservatism - or Ultra-Conservatism, depending on your political stance - and the inspiration of sundry libel suits, has a growing impact on certain communities. To find possible characteristics of these communities - its reading audience, we might study the magazine's advertisements. With this in view, we shall consider the following advertisements and draw some conclusions indicative of the magazine's audience - type:

The great American Bald Eagle is silhouetted in white against the dark celestial universe. Its claws, wings, and tilt of the head direct the reader to George Washington's Thanksgiving Day Proclamation of 1789. It is an advertisement for the W.H. Brady Company, producer of "automatic machines for dispensing labels, nameplates, masks, and tapes," apparently aimed at solvent businessmen.

"In the tradition of an earlier America . . . the Ruger." And the Ruger is the single-six revolver of the nineteenth century cowboy - the gun that "has earned the respect of modern sportsmen everywhere." In short, it's the famous "six-shooter" of those pioneer-individualists who roamed the American prairies before this generation's "grand-daddys" drove their first horseless carriages.

This advertisement is aimed at a particular kind of sportsman. This sportsman is the kind who believes in "an earlier America" and the conservative tradition of rugged individualism.

The most illuminating part of this magazine is its "classified advertisements" page, which includes such diverse topics as literary, real estate, jobs and job hunters, investments, personal and yachts. The literary column has J.F.K. Coloring Books on sale. Under real estate a 400 year old, 26 room home at Oyster Bay, Long Island is selling for "only" $175,000. Under job hunters a "conservative journalist" wants a job in N.Y.C. and a "middle-aged conservative" is seeking a position with a "like-minded" firm. And of particular note is the personal column where scripts are wanted which "represent the current upsurge in Conservative Thinking", and an Episcopal clergyman would like to hear from a vestry seeking a "highly qualified and broadly conservative rector."

Considering these, it is obvious that this magazine has a conservative-oriented audience. As for their political characteristics, they seem manifold. First, judging from the first two examples, they have a deep respect for the past and the romance of "rugged individualism." Second, some of them can afford yachts, $170,000 homes, and expensive sportswear. Third, they tend to be self-employed, business executives, or business-oriented. And finally, some have very strong inclinations to work only with Woodland Avenue. All existing parking areas will be graded and finished with blacktop. President Wilkins noted that "the tree" in the gravel lot must come down, as it has lost limbs and may prove a danger in a short time. All the trees on Conant Avenue will be left standing.

(Editors note: last year, when students heard that the large tree in the area of the gravel lot was to be cut down, a petition was circulated, asking that it be spared. Since that time, however, as noted above, the physical condition of the tree has become such that it can no longer remain standing.)

The auditorium will be begun this fall, with completion scheduled for 1965.

Next year, a library minor will be instituted at the college. The approval of the state board of education has been received for the initiation of such a program.

Freshmen-Among Other Things

Prevalent on most college campuses, especially at this time of year, are comments derogatorily aimed at the newer members of the college community, commonly known as freshmen among other things. Apparently they are either too small, think they are too big, or just don't think at all. The feature staff of the Independent thought it might be interesting to parallel the reactions to different campus activities by a typical freshman and a typical senior. It was not difficult finding either. They shall remain anonymous, for that is what they are.

Subject: Registration
Freshmen: It was sort of tedious, but I guess that's because we're freshmen and unaware of the proper procedure for registering. I'm sure that when we become upperclassmen it'll be a snap.

Senior: It's a good thing I'm graduating this year. Next year I'd have to take a leave of absence just to register.

Subject: The bird on the lawn.
Frosh: Isn't that interesting. I like it.

Senior: I'll have to bring my friends in the other way so they won't see it.

Subject: The Independent
Frosh: I can't wait for the first issue of the Independent to come out.

Senior: The what?
Subject: Construction on Campus
Frosh: This is certainly going to be a big campus when they've finished with this construction.

Senior: How am I supposed to sleep during those education lectures with all that damn banging going on.

Subject: Selection of Professors
Frosh: I've heard Professor Wrinkle is a marvelous lecturer.

fellow-conservatives - perhaps to be safe-guarded against their liberal brethren.

Man in a Goldfish Bowl

by Peggie Maher

"Ron Bruce"

The Goldfish Bowl, that tiny office at the end of the main corridor of the College Center, has a new resident. Mr. Ronald Bruse has taken the position of Chairman of the College Center, and has therefore inherited what must surely be the least private office on campus.

Ron Bruse, as he usually introduces himself, is a native New Yorker. He holds an associate degree from Queens College, and baccalaureate and Master's degrees from New York University. Evidence of a rather wide variety of interests can be seen merely from the degrees. The associate is in business; the Bachelor's, in Recreation Education, with a minor in Social Science; and the Master's in guidance and personnel. His teaching certification is in Recreation and Outdoor Education and Youth Leadership.

He eventually hopes to do doctoral work in counselling psychology, either at N.Y.U. or Rutgers.

Prior to coming to Newark State, Mr. Bruse was a member of the program staff of the Loeb Student Center on N.Y.U.'s Washington Square Campus. He has also worked for the Recreation Department and the Department of Parks of the city of New York. In 1960 and '61, he worked as a camp director for the Boy Scouts of America. Boy scouting is an old interest - he is a former Eagle Scout and scoutmaster.

When asked to list "hobbies and other activities," Mr. Bruse gave a reply which should endear him to a large segment of Newark State's population. Bridge, he stated, is a "mania" with him, and he can play for hours on end. However, he plays according to rules, and even knows how to keep score, things which proponents of "Newark State Bridge" seldom, if ever, master.

Again evidencing a rather wide field of interests, Mr. Bruse expressed a liking for reading, theatre, music, hiking, and camping. In literature, he prefers non-fiction, particularly sociology, psychology, and cultural anthropology. "Fiction annoys me because it's trite." He dislikes classical music, but finds any and all kinds of theatre acceptable. Only a lack of time prevents him from devoting more attention to both of the latter fields.

The student personnel program "one of the oldest and best" according to Mr. Bruse, attracted him to Newark State. Presently, he is chairman of the College Center and of the College Center Board, a member of the Student-Faculty Co-op and advisor to the Inter-Fraternity-Sorority Council (I.F.S.C.)

In general, Mr. Bruse hopes that "the center will be maximally effective in serving the college." He is willing to give whatever help he or his office can afford. He says his office is open to students, whether they want to come in just to say hello or to ask questions. The sincerity of that statement can be testified to by the Independent staff.

Mr. Bruse is particularly concerned that the Hex Room and Snack Bar problems be resolved. "I want people to think of the College Center as the 'living room' of the college", he said, "and to treat it as something in which they have pride."

Swimming Pool Nears Completion

Finishing Touches Needed

The Newark State College swimming pool, started last year as part of the overall expansion program in the physical education department, is nearing completion. The only things which stand between the completion of the pool and its use by NSC students are filter installation and painting.

The pool will be 75' by 44' and will have six lanes for actual swimming. There will be 10' of water at the deep end and two one meter aluminum diving boards with adjustable fulcrums.

It will be one month, according to present estimates, before everything can be checked out and the complete facility turned over to the physical education department for program purposes. Early approval is expected for the recommendation that students, beginning with the present Freshman Class, be required to pass a swim test prior to graduation.

Certified American Red Cross instructors and senior life savers, both men and women, are invited to secure applications from the physical education department if they are interested in assisting with the swim program. Preference will be given to volunteers interested in maintaining their Red Cross accreditation for teaching. Class level and experience are other factors to be considered.

Mrs. Resnick, Mr. Zweidinger, and Mr. Saks, Chairman of the local American Red Cross First Aid and Water Safety services, have been working on a program to assure full utilization, coupled with strict safety and sanitation controls.

Tennis Anyone?

Intramural tennis is one of the activities being planned for the coming year. As of now the tennis courts are available to all Newark State personnel, which includes students and staff. The courts will be open every afternoon with the exception of Tuesday afternoons. This is the day that the Women's Recreation Association gives tennis instruction.

A student tennis tournament has been planned for the end of September with men's singles and mixed doubles entered. All students who wish to compete should sign up now at the Sports Bulletin Board in the College Center. If eight or more compete in each tournament, gold, silver, and bronze medals will be awarded to the winners.

Everyone is eligible except varsity players.

Squire Sport Talk.....

Arnold Silverman

A new year, a new program, and most important, new enthusiasm; these three things are Newark State's keys to both athletic enjoyment and success in the coming season.

New years come without fail. New programs come with age and experience. But the most important part of this threesome, enthusiasm, comes only once in a great while. This is shown only too well at Newark State by the lack of attendance at most of the sporting contests played here on campus.

It's time the students of Newark State woke up to the fact that they do support a full schedule of intercollegiate athletics. Year in and year out newspaper space has been needlessly wasted by the call for help from any one of the many college teams. This call is not an S.O.S. for players or personnel but rather for plain old-fashioned student support.

Repetitious, of course. But how else can a subject, which is so important, take hold in a person's mind. That person has to be hounded day in and day out. If it's not effective the first time than maybe it will be the second or third or fourth time.

The dictionary definition of support is (1) keep from falling; hold up (2) give strength or courage to. These definitions apply directly to the sports program at Newark State.

At almost every contest, with the exception of basketball, attendance has fallen off to practically nothing. Some say this can't be helped, but you, the student, know this isn't true.

We are definitely a small school but we are growing larger every year. If the upperclassmen wish to remain lethargic and leave everything to everyone else then maybe it's up to our incoming freshmen. We have new and larger facilities for these freshmen, so why not start this new enthusiasm with them?

The only thing that anyone can do is urge you, the student, to support an already expanding sports program. If you don't, then what is the use of having any sports program at all? The support of Newark State sports is a full time job for everyone. Work at it and become a success at it.

New Plans Engage MAA for Coming Year

The Men's Athletic Association has already begun to function as part of the already expanding sports program at Newark State. In addition to the athletics already instituted on men. Through this activity, the freshmen will become better acquainted with the sports activities on campus.

The MAA would like to make known the fact that Mr. William campus, the MAA will be initiating wrestling and swimming groups. These groups will be on a probationary basis for a period of one year. If they prove successful, swimming and wrestling will be added to the varsity program.

Intramural softball will begin shortly. It will be organized and run by the MAA, and is designed basically for the incoming fresh-

La Russo, who coached the varsity basketball team for the past few years, will no longer be with the team. Replacing Mr. La Russo will be Mr. Bill Sullivan. Mr. Sullivan will also be in charge of intramural activities on campus.

According to MAA President Bill Kennedy, soccer practice has already started for the coming season.

Managers Welcome

Positions on all athletic teams on the Newark State campus are not only open for those who wish to participate in a playing capacity, but perhaps more important, for those who would like to be of some assistance to any one of the many coaches.

Being a manager is nothing to be shunned. It is an integral part of any team and is a highly rewarding position. Most of the coaches have more than their share of work both classwise and team wise. They would certainly welcome anyone who would be interested in assuming some of the work attached to the problems of keeping a team in working order.

All those interested in working in some capacity for one of the athletic teams, other than in a playing capacity, should contact either Mr. Zwiedinger or Dr. Errington in the college gym.
